the conversation project

Conversation Sabbath

Join the hundreds of congregations taking part in Conversation Sabbath, sharing each faith's teachings on this critical topic and supporting congregants in having the conversation in familiar settings, and not during a medical crisis in the ICU.

Whether you are new to the idea of talking in your congregation about what matters most about living and dying, or have been organizing Conversation Sabbath for years, we hope you will join us for the next Community Call on Wednesday, August 21, 3:00-4:00 PM ET.

Rev. Rosemary Lloyd will be joined by the inspiring team from Larimer Advance Care Planning, Mindy Rickard and Eva Ireland, to share lessons learned in working with faith communities on advance care planning conversations. There will be ample time to share your experience and questions during this webinar. If you can't be on the call and have questions you want to be sure we address, please send us an email. Luther Burbank, an America Botanist and horticulturist, was one of the pioneers of agricultural science. Burbank developed over 800 plant varieties and strains during his 55 years in the field. Although one of his varieties of potatoes became a favorite on the West Coast, he first had to induce his brother to plant it for several year before he saw success. Burbank lived from 1849 – 1926.
